

Dear Audra,

Hey girly! First off, you have found such a sweet boyfriend who truly loves you, and I couldn't be happier for you. Chandler contacted me to send you a letter this holiday, and of course I had to participate. So, I want to first say Happy Thanksgiving! It was so amazing to see you again at Friendsgiving, because it has been far too long since we've seen each other/ hung out together. I miss spending time with you and the girls, and it sucks because we are all growing up and adulting now, so the times we get to see each other are becoming fewer and farther between. Second, I couldn't be prouder of the woman/ person you have become. You are such a badass for moving out to Seattle on your own, starting a new job at Microsoft (which is an insane feat), and doing it all with a smile/ confidence. Third, I sincerely love ya girly, you are such an amazing person and friend and I'm so happy to have known you for 8-9 years now. It's insane to think that we've known each other and been friends for that long now, as time has just flown by. From freshman year in high school to 1 year post grad of college, a lot has transpired in that time! We've seen so much growth of each other and been able to experience some of the biggest life changes together (whether that be high school graduation through a pandemic, to starting college, to graduating college, and starting these new chapters in our lives of big girl jobs/ careers :D). I'm so happy to see you happy Audra, I love ya, and I am so happy that we are friends and have stayed friends even with the literal distance between us/ life happening. I wish you all the best in your new chapter girly! Know that I'm always a text or phone call away and I can't wait to see you again in December and continue to get updates on you/ your life! Happy Thanksgiving Audra!

Love,

Maddie :D
